Tips for Introductions and Conclusions

- The function of the introduction is to pull the reader into your essay.

- A good introduction may ask a question, issue a challenge, pose a mystery, or deliver a surprise.

- The function of the conclusion is to sum up the essay and bring it to a close.

- Good conclusions may look back to the beginning, offer a chuckle, give a final bit of evidence to clinch the case, or present a moral that sums up the meaning of the essay.
